

”Treetop-Hunting” Capercaillie and European Black Grouse

We in the Northern part of Sweden firmly believe that December and January are the absolute best months for the “real” bird hunter. The countryside and trees are covered with dazzling snow, glittering hoarfrost and blueish ice. On special hunting skies or snowshoes you stealth-hunt carefully through deep pine forests to look for black grouse or a Capercaillie cock perching on a treetop, warily scouring the countryside. That’s why we call it “treetop hunting”!

If you are a devoted birdhunter and have never done this type of hunting before, you don’t know what you’re been missing! During a limited time we at Novahunt offer you a chance to experience this once-in-a-lifetime adventure. And an adventure it is, that you can be sure of !
